WHY SUPPORT PRIDE?

When you support Pride, you support our community, your workforce, and your business prosperity.

Consumers

More than 75% of LGBT adults and their friends and relatives say they would switch to brands known to be LGBT friendly. In 2017 alone, the LGBT consumer buying power was over $917 billion.

When a company matches its public and private positions on LGBT inclusion, it demonstrates its authenticity about LGBT inclusion—a key criterion for how internal and external stakeholders view a company's efforts.

Leadership & Teams

Diverse teams solve problems more quickly, and companies with diverse senior-level teams are more successful. This data translates into economic benefits for companies that engage in LGBT-inclusive policies.

LGBT inclusion is not just a priority for companies because of ROI. "It's the right thing to do" was a common response by companies when asked why they want inclusive practices.

Employees

In a 2017 national survey, 80% of respondents said that inclusion is an important factor in choosing an employer, and 72% would leave an organization for another that was more inclusive.

Companies reap a myriad of benefits from their LGBT-inclusive practices, including more engaged employees and the fact that it's instrumental in identifying talent.

Owners & Investors

Companies that adopt LGBT policies show a long term increase in financial performance compared to peer companies that do not adopt them.

Companies embrace LGBT inclusion to attract and retain the best talent. In turn, companies are better able to engage and retain LGBT employees and cultivate strong partnerships with community organizations, external organizations, and employee groups.

Community

LGBT inclusion, both legal and cultural, is positively correlated with GDP per capita growth and innovation. Strong inclusion makes for strong communities. Companies play a role in ensuring that all of a community's citizens can contribute and belong through nondiscrimination protections.

One of the most consistent findings of this research was that companies took seriously their responsibility for standing up for LGBT employees and the community in the face of anti-LGBT legislation.

The following are not acceptable attire on festival grounds or during the event: Visible underwear or what appears to be underwear, Loin Cloths, G-Strings, BDSM attire or accessories, Speedos.
